

THURSDAY, NOV. 25, 1858, 1 A.M.

See Reading Matter on First Page.

ONE paper will be issued from the office of the Standard, but the regular offices of the Evening Bulletin will appear at their usual hours of publication.

TO-DAY'S REPORTED.—The stockholders of the Southern Pacific Railroad met to day at 5 o'clock at the Masonic Hall, and received a report of Mr. Fowles, relative to the recent communication to elect a new board of officers, and receive such other suggestions for the benefit of the company as may be brought forward. There will be a meeting to-morrow, at many given hours, for the purpose of transacting business, and the officers will be in session every hour, and until the last.

The Report of the President, Dr. Fowles, is looked for anxiously, for though its general features may be learned from what has transpired through the paper, still the details and the financial whilts of the company as it stands are affected by the contents of the report.

THE NATIONAL BANK.—It is generally supposed that the national fund originated among the Pilgrim fathers of New England, who, objecting to the celebration of Christmas as established by the Church of England, established it in their New Haven Colony (now New Haven). It reached Boston in 1629, and was first used in 1637.

The Home for New Orleans.—Capt. Sturgis has determined to leave on Saturday evening.

The Union.—The old Society of Friends, founded in 1650, is still in existence.

The Friends of the Poor.—Dr. Fowles, is looking for anxiety, for though its general features

may be learned from what has transpired through

the paper, still the details and the financial whilts

of the company as it stands are affected by the contents of the report.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE.—It is generally supposed that the national fund originated among the Pilgrim fathers of New England, who, objecting to the celebration of Christmas as established by the Church of England, established it in their New Haven Colony (now New Haven).

It reached Boston in 1629, and was first used in 1637.

The Home for New Orleans.—Capt. Sturgis has determined to leave on Saturday evening.

The Union.—The old Society of Friends, founded in 1650, is still in existence.

The Friends of the Poor.—Dr. Fowles, is looking for anxiety, for though its general features

may be learned from what has transpired through

the paper, still the details and the financial whilts

of the company as it stands are affected by the con-

tents of the report.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE.—It is generally supposed that the national fund originated among the Pil-

grim fathers of New England, who, objecting to the celebration of Christmas as established by the Church of England,

established it in their New Haven Colony (now New Haven).

It reached Boston in 1629, and was first used in 1637.

The Home for New Orleans.—Capt. Sturgis has

determined to leave on Saturday evening.

The Union.—The old Society of Friends, founded in 1650, is still in existence.

The Friends of the Poor.—Dr. Fowles, is looking for anxiety, for though its general features

may be learned from what has transpired through

the paper, still the details and the financial whilts

of the company as it stands are affected by the con-

tents of the report.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE.—It is generally supposed that the national fund originated among the Pil-

grim fathers of New England, who, objecting to the celebration of Christmas as established by the Church of England,

established it in their New Haven Colony (now New Haven).

It reached Boston in 1629, and was first used in 1637.

The Home for New Orleans.—Capt. Sturgis has

determined to leave on Saturday evening.

The Union.—The old Society of Friends, founded in 1650, is still in existence.

The Friends of the Poor.—Dr. Fowles, is looking for anxiety, for though its general features

may be learned from what has transpired through

the paper, still the details and the financial whilts

of the company as it stands are affected by the con-

tents of the report.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE.—It is generally supposed that the national fund originated among the Pil-

grim fathers of New England, who, objecting to the celebration of Christmas as established by the Church of England,

established it in their New Haven Colony (now New Haven).

It reached Boston in 1629, and was first used in 1637.

The Home for New Orleans.—Capt. Sturgis has

determined to leave on Saturday evening.

The Union.—The old Society of Friends, founded in 1650, is still in existence.

The Friends of the Poor.—Dr. Fowles, is looking for anxiety, for though its general features

may be learned from what has transpired through

the paper, still the details and the financial whilts

of the company as it stands are affected by the con-

tents of the report.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE.—It is generally supposed that the national fund originated among the Pil-

grim fathers of New England, who, objecting to the celebration of Christmas as established by the Church of England,

established it in their New Haven Colony (now New Haven).

It reached Boston in 1629, and was first used in 1637.

The Home for New Orleans.—Capt. Sturgis has

determined to leave on Saturday evening.

The Union.—The old Society of Friends, founded in 1650, is still in existence.

The Friends of the Poor.—Dr. Fowles, is looking for anxiety, for though its general features

may be learned from what has transpired through

the paper, still the details and the financial whilts

of the company as it stands are affected by the con-

tents of the report.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE.—It is generally supposed that the national fund originated among the Pil-

grim fathers of New England, who, objecting to the celebration of Christmas as established by the Church of England,

established it in their New Haven Colony (now New Haven).

It reached Boston in 1629, and was first used in 1637.

The Home for New Orleans.—Capt. Sturgis has

determined to leave on Saturday evening.

The Union.—The old Society of Friends, founded in 1650, is still in existence.

The Friends of the Poor.—Dr. Fowles, is looking for anxiety, for though its general features

may be learned from what has transpired through

the paper, still the details and the financial whilts

of the company as it stands are affected by the con-

tents of the report.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE.—It is generally supposed that the national fund originated among the Pil-

grim fathers of New England, who, objecting to the celebration of Christmas as established by the Church of England,

established it in their New Haven Colony (now New Haven).

It reached Boston in 1629, and was first used in 1637.

The Home for New Orleans.—Capt. Sturgis has

determined to leave on Saturday evening.

The Union.—The old Society of Friends, founded in 1650, is still in existence.

The Friends of the Poor.—Dr. Fowles, is

looking for anxiety, for though its general features

may be learned from what has transpired through

the paper, still the details and the financial whilts

of the company as it stands are affected by the con-

contents of the report.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE.—It is generally sup-

posed that the national fund originated among the Pil-

grim fathers of New England, who, objecting to the celebration of Christmas as established by the Church of England,

established it in their New Haven Colony (now New Haven).

It reached Boston in 1629, and was first used in 1637.

The Home for New Orleans.—Capt. Sturgis has

determined to leave on Saturday evening.

The Union.—The old Society of Friends, founded in 1650, is still in existence.

The Friends of the Poor.—Dr. Fowles, is

looking for anxiety, for though its general features

may be learned from what has transpired through

the paper, still the details and the financial whilts

of the company as it stands are affected by the con-

contents of the report.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE.—It is generally sup-

posed that the national fund originated among the Pil-

grim fathers of New England, who, objecting to the celebration of Christmas as established by the Church of England,

established it in their New Haven Colony (now New Haven).

It reached Boston in 1629, and was first used in 1637.

The Home for New Orleans.—Capt. Sturgis has

determined to leave on Saturday evening.

The Union.—The old Society of Friends, founded in 1650, is still in existence.

The Friends of the Poor.—Dr. Fowles, is

looking for anxiety, for though its general features

may be learned from what has transpired through

the paper, still the details and the financial whilts

of the company as it stands are affected by the con-

contents of the report.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE.—It is generally sup-

posed that the national fund originated among the Pil-

grim fathers of New England, who, objecting to the celebration of Christmas as established by the Church of England,

established it in their New Haven Colony (now New Haven).

It reached Boston in 1629, and was first used in 1637.

The Home for New Orleans.—Capt. Sturgis has

determined to leave on Saturday evening.

The Union.—The old Society of Friends, founded in 1650, is still in existence.

The Friends of the Poor.—Dr. Fowles, is

looking for anxiety, for though its general features

may be learned from what has transpired through

the paper, still the details and the financial whilts

of the company as it stands are affected by the con-

contents of the report.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE.—It is generally sup-

posed that the national fund originated among the Pil-

grim fathers of New England, who, objecting to the celebration of Christmas as established by the Church of England,

established it in their New Haven Colony (now New Haven).

It reached Boston in 1629, and was first used in 1637.

The Home for New Orleans.—Capt. Sturgis has

determined to leave on Saturday evening.

The Union.—The old Society of Friends, founded in 1650, is still in existence.

The Friends of the Poor.—Dr. Fowles, is looking for

